Managing your Experiments and Projects Beyond Spreadsheets

Louis de christen
Agilent, Spain

As scientific technology continues to improve, so does the ability of shared resource labs to effectively serve their scientific partners. However, an increase in laboratory customers presents a unique set of issues, which can hinder a lab's operational efficiency and impact overall results. In this workshop we will identify opportunities for optimized lab operations efficiency, discuss details of an effective laboratory operations strategy, and provide insights on best practices and current tools in the industry. Investing time and thought into refining your laboratory operations will pave the way for satisfied partners and improved innovation.
