

9th International Conference on Clinical & Medical Case Reports

September 27-28, 2018 | Amsterdam, Netherlands

A clinical case of prolonged primary infertility in a context of multiple uterine fibroids of a giant size

The articles provides a case report describing multiple uterine fibroids of a giant size. It describes the examination of thre patient and surgical invasion being followed by a successful birth of a child. It should be mentioned that active treatment tactics and preoperative preparation of the patient shold be considered to be successful for the patients with infertility in combination with multiple uterine fibroids.

Biography

Belkina Natalia N. has completed her PhD from Privolzhsky Research Medical University. She defended her thesis in 2011. She has published 7 papers in reputed journals and has been serving as an editorial board member of repute journals and developed 2 patents. Her research interest is development of algorithm of following-up and clinical trials of complex treatment of the patients suffering from infertility being provoked by chronic endometritis, thin endometrium and uterine myoma.

jaznn@mail.ru

Belkina Natalia NPrivolzhsky Research Medical University, Nizhny Novgorod, Russia

Co- Authors

Ryzhova N.K., Pasina OB and Zakharova E.APrivolzhsky Research Medical University, Nizhny Novgorod, RussiaNotes: