Dark energy in the treatment and healing of diseases

Maniharsingh Koijam
ICFAI University, India

In studying a five-dimensional universe entangled with Brans-Dicke field it is amazingly found that a portion of the dark energy contained in this universe may contribute to the treatment and healing of different diseases and illnesses in human beings. But in such activities, the dark energy, in some cases, might have been transformed into other forms of energy. The reaction between the dark energy and the different kinds of matter contained in this universe is found to possibly have some power to rejuvenate many forms of lives in this cosmos.
