The Successful Nurse, USA

Advancing your career and success in nursing

Given the increasing complexity of care, the aging of the population, and rising costs; nursing is a challenging profession. To be successful and fulfilled, nurses need to be deliberate in identifying their intentions and passions and chart their future course with goals and actions that flow in this direction. In this workshop you will identify and prioritize your top five ingredients for an ideal life and career and begin to design a plan to manifest these for yourself. Success strategies such as continued learning, forming a support group (tribe), practicing radical self-care and supporting others will be discussed. Success is a personally defined outcome but many people spend little to no time creating their plans.
