The Connection Between The Unconsious Mind & COVID-19 & Virus & Infectious Disease

Angela Wilson
Mind Power Lady, Dr Angela Wilson (Ph.D.), Australia

Background: To evaluate the one most common combination of co-morbidities that can lead to heart failure.

Background: When the global economy is damaged, we are urged to joint all dots into one whole picture to empower the human race. Human body is a complicated machine with intricate energy paths from body and three minds. There is a switch of self-healing in the unconscious mind. With this global pandemic, public education on the self-prevention of spreading the root sources of the virus is critical. However, restrict body connection is so far not good enough and we can do more.

Conclusions: Everyone needs to take responsibility for tracking the sources of where the virus starts and terminate it from every possible angle.

True case study about treatment on tuberculosis, HPV and experience in the infectious department can bring some new ideas. The creative approach to dealing with massive death in a country with less medical support like India is possible.
