Editorial Highlights of Role of Politics in Education

Huria Maliak*
Dr. of pharmacy, Rajiv Gandhi University of Health and science, Bengaluru, Karnataka, India

*Corresponding author: Dr. of pharmacy, Rajiv Gandhi University of Health and science, Bengaluru, Karnataka, India, Tel: +8147259586; E-mail: Huriamalik0123@gmail.com

Received date: July 20, 2020; Accepted date: July 22, 2020; Published date: July 26, 2020

Copyright: © 2020 Maliak H. This is an open-access article distributed under the terms of the Creative Commons Attribution License, which permits unrestricted use, distribution, and reproduction in any medium, provided the original author and source are credited.

Editorial

The Journal of Mass Communication & Journalism is an Open Access journal (ISSN: 2165-7912) that provides free access to its well-researched articles to its users. It owes the major responsibility to explore what these developments mean to the audience and the way audience is influencing the media of mass communications. Over the last 30 or so years, different political ideologies have given rise to different notions of how the state should promote social justice through education. The policies that schools experience today, such as the National Curriculum, school choice, high-stakes testing and school accountability through league tables, have been the result of different political views on how best to achieve a world-class education system. The role that education can play in promoting social justice has been particularly prominent, with parties on both the political Left and Right seeing education as key to reducing social inequality.

This academic journal would accept manuscripts in various broad and specific areas of research in this field, including the Newspapers, Radio, TV, Community Media, New Media, Mobile and Social Media of communication, on the way they influence various sections of our society. The manuscripts can explore various broad aspects like the.