Editorial Note

The Editorial Note in Environmental Science (ENES) series, including its Editorial Notes sub-topics in Application of Environmental Science and Editorial Notes in Environmental pollution, has setup itself as a medium for the publication of new tendencies in Environmental Science and analytical chemistry know-how lookup and instructing.

The cornerstone of ENES's editorial coverage is its unwavering dedication to record the present-day consequences from all areas of environmental science and analytical chemistry research, development, and education. ENES has usually loved cooperation with the environmental science R & D community, with several renowned academics, and with prestigious institutes and realized societies. Our mission is to serve this society by means of imparting a most precious publication service.
