

OUTCOME OF GENDER BASED VIOLENCE PROSECUTION CASES AMONG CHILDREN, KEY IN INFLUENCING GENERAL MANAGEMENT IN MIGORI COUNTY, WESTERN KENYA

Seth Midenyo

MIGORI COUNTY, WESTERN KENYA

To observe the number of cases that proceed to full prosecution after SGBV in relation to victims custody against the number that fail proper court processes or fail due to witness interference because of lack of proper protection in Migori county, Western Kenya between Jan 2016 to Jan 2017

The Organization compares the outcome of the court cases when the survivors are held in well protected area as they give evidence in court against when they are left home. 5 Case studies are used in this observation. One, a 13 years old child that was rescued in early marriage, the other four are cases of defilement from different regions. One is a 12 years old girl from Kuria who was defiled by a 65 years old uncle.

RECOMMENDATION

1. Need for proper establishment at least a rescue home in the county
2. There is need to enhance social protection and protection of the witnesses

Cases are majorly lost due to interference of smooth running of the court process by the perpetrators through influence to the families of the victims hence the victims are usually either fearful or the relatives of the victims always feel that their security and social relationship within
