Editorial Note

On behalf of the Board of the Journal of Environmental Analytical Chemistry (<https://www.hilarispublisher.com/environmental-analytical-chemistry/editorial-board.html>) and my co-editors, I am glad to present the Volume 7, Issue 3 of the journal. The journal established in the year 2014 has now published 27 issues; four issues in a year, including special issues.

To release the issue main thing we want is articles. To write an article there are some points to be noticed. Your audience is critical when producing any piece of content you intend to market. A bit of demographical research will go a long way toward achieving this goal. For example, if your target market consists of the 45-and-over age group, using modern terms that don't appeal to them won't do much to help you gain traction. Understand your audience and who you are writing for before you craft your newsworthy release.

Journal indexing: The journal has indexed in Open J Gate, Directory of Research Journal Indexing (DRJI), EBSCO A-Z, OCLC- WorldCat, Scholarsteerand also Geneva Foundation for Medical Education and Research.

Average download per article is increasing and on an average there are minimum 10 downloads per paper. We could reach this stage through the constant support of Board Members and intellectual generosity of the readers and contributors (authors and reviewers). One of the objectives of this journal is to encourage publication from different streams of research that helps to enrich further the discourse on Scientometrics.

Readers can particularly notice progress made in this direction through the Book Reviews which is emerging as an important section of this journal. We take this opportunity to thank the authors/publishers for sending their books for review and excellent book review by authors. Book review is now being handled by Dr.Neil Fitzgerald, one of the Editor of this journal. We are expanding our editorial board for addressing the gaps and further enriching this journal.

I am glad that Prof. Mohamed Abdel-Rehim is joining as one of the Editor of this journal. Her brief profile is enclosed. I am sure with his efforts the journal will be able to strengthen the links between scientometrics and others streams within STS (science, technology, society) studies.
